CODE OF ETHICS – Email

The BSA Troop 4 will provide email an account only and Internet access is the responsibility of the scout, parents or guardians to provide a connection to the Internet. Scouts will have the ability to share information and resources between our troop as well as world wide with the use of their email account.

As with many things, access to the Internet provides materials and resources of great value as well as materials that may be illegal, inaccurate or offensive to some people.

We ask that parents, guardians and scouts discuss the privilege of Email and Internet use and the sanctions for violation of this Code of Ethics. By signing the consent form below, the scout, along with his or her parents or guardians, agree to abide by this Code of Ethics for email and thus will be permitted an email account through the troop's email system free of charge.

Also, as a condition of having this email account, a scout must provide his username and password to his parents or guardians. The parents or guardians have the right to monitor their scouts email account at anytime it is deemed necessary.

If you or your scout has any questions about this Code of Ethics, please contact your scoutmaster or the troop's webmaster.

CODE OF ETHICS FOR EMAIL USERS – SCOUTSS

Anyone who wishes to use email and the internet has the responsibility of doing so in an ethical and legal manner. As a condition for the use of your email account while with Troop 4, users (defined as a scouts or leaders) are expected to:

1. Respect the privacy of others.
